

Triangle Business Journal Names RegEd's CFO, Allen Ramsay, as a Finalist for the 2012 CFO of the Year Award

July 9, 2012

MORRISVILLE, NC: RegEd, a leading provider of technology solutions for compliance and risk management, today announced that its CFO Allen Ramsay has been named as a finalist for the 2012 CFO of the Year Award by the Triangle Business Journal. The Triangle Business Journal's CFO awards program recognizes outstanding financial professionals for their fiscal stewardship and their community service record during the past 12 months. The finalists are individuals that have demonstrated deep knowledge and expertise in the community's financial sector.

Allen is responsible for RegEd's financial strategy and fiscal management. He has an extensive background in corporate finance, strategy, and business development, including expertise in structuring, negotiating, acquiring, and assimilating multiple domestic and international business alliances. He joined RegEd in 2011 and has been instrumental in helping refine operational metrics, develop partnerships and evaluate acquisitions. In addition, Allen is an active participant in community service and worked on this year's highly successful Band Together B-52s Concert which raised funds in support of the Urban Ministries of Wake County. He is also a member of the board of the RTP CFO Forum.

Allen was nominated by four individuals who were either former colleagues or had worked with him on various business committees. Jon Gorman, CTO of Allosso Technologies and a former colleague, said "Allen provides outstanding leadership to an organization from both a financial and operational perspective. One of his greatest assets is his ability to understand and develop the story behind the numbers enabling an organization to capitalize on opportunities that may otherwise be unrecognized. He is uncompromising in his integrity and ethical standards. In addition, he raises the bar for the executive team by effectively balancing challenges to status quo, progress towards goals, and long-term profitability."

Another nomination came from Sumit Vorha, CEO of Lonerider Brewing Company, noted that "Allen has three things in abundance: intelligence, the ability to make the complex simple and true humility. He boils down extremely complicated problems and is able to provide intuitive solutions."

"Allen is the most dynamic financial leader I have worked with in more than two decades of management." said John M. Schobel, CEO of RegEd. "Since joining RegEd, he has assisted our executive team in shaping a bright future for our firm. He is analytical, research- and fact-oriented, and a strong advocate for clarity in an increasingly inundated world. I am glad that the broader Triangle business community also appreciates his contributions and has nominated him as a finalist for this year's award."
